

H-1B POSTING NOTICE INSTRUCTIONS

The public notice requirement must be met in one of the following ways (1) or (2)(a), (b), (c):

(1) For positions covered by a collective bargaining agreement, notice must be given to the collective bargaining representative; or

(2) For positions not covered by a collective bargaining agreement, a notice must be posted using one or a combination of the following methods (a-c):

a. A paper notice, posted for ten days in at least two "conspicuous" locations at each site where the H-1B employee will be working, whether such place of employment is owned or operated by the employer-of-record or by some other person or entity. Appropriate or conspicuous locations include, but are not limited to, in the immediate proximity of wage and hour notices or occupational safety and health notices required by other provisions of law;

b. A one-time e-mail sent to all employees in the same occupational classification including employees of the H-1B employer and workers in the same occupational classification of another person or entity which owns or operates the place of employment ("affected workers"). If affected workers lack practical computer access, i.e., email access, a hard copy paper posting must be posted;

c. A ten-day electronic posting on Web or intranet site where vacancy notices are usually posted. Electronic postings to H-1B employer's Web or intranet site must be on a site where employees in the same occupational classification of the H-1B employer and workers in the same occupational classification of another person or entity which owns or operates the place of employment ("affected workers") have direct access. Where affected workers of another person or entity which owns or operates the place of employment do not have access to the H-1B employer's Web or intranet site, the H-1B employer may arrange to have the notice appear for 10 days on the person's or entity's Web or intranet site, which owns or operates the place of employment, that affected workers have direct access. If affected workers lack practical computer access, a hard copy paper posting must be posted per (2) a. or a one-time email must be sent per (2) b. as described above.

DOL regulations require the employer to notify the workforce of its intention to hire an H-1B worker up to 30 days before the day the LCA is filed with U.S. Department of Labor (DOL).
